Hack4Impact Sponsorship

Hack4Impact is a student club at McGill University aiming to support non-profit organizations by providing them with a software application built from the ground up by students from McGill aspiring to work in the technology industry. All of this is done pro bono, i.e. we do not ask for any form of compensation from the non-profit.

Benefits of becoming a Hack4Impact sponsor include:

- Deepening your company's relationship with the students at McGill University, a world-class institution.

- Contributing to the education of aspiring software engineers.

- Recruiting from a pool of students with practical industry skills (knowledgeable about the Agile process, building/launching products, and working in a team).

- Obtaining access to McGill's tech community and its highly motivated students.

- Gaining exposure to innovative ideas and technologies.

- Comprehensive campus event hosting. Whether you would like to host a workshop or a recruiting event, we will create and market the event to the McGill tech community and get everything organized.
